FATCHEN DEFEATS GENTRY

Joe Patchen beat John R. Gentry at Wash ington Park yesterday on a fast track, before 6,500 people. Had there been betting Gentry would have been favorite and the wise ones would have fallen. He came here fresh from his mile in 2:03½ at Red Oak, while it was Patch in's first appearan e of the season. Naturally everything pointed to Gentry on condition, while he needed no speed. The race showed that he lacked both. Andrews was not sure but that his Red Oak mile might have hurt him although he had not evidenced it. The inference is that it did, for he was far from himself. His is that it did, for he was far from himself. His speed was wanting, he acted footsore, and did something unprecedented for him—broke at the finish in both heats. Joe Patchen drew the pole and paced one of his old-fashioned, but wonderful races. He had the foot of Gentry at all times, and could not have lost unless he fell lown. The time was not up to expectations— :05½, 2:06¾. The speed bits were the econd quarter of the first half, in 30¾ seconds, the last quarter, in 30% seconds, and the second autrer of the second heat in 30 seconds flat. Gentry made his effort in the stretch in both heats; in the first he was outpacing the black horse at the long distance, when he broke and was beaten by four lengths. In the second, al-though he was groggy all around the upper turn, he responded to Andrews' call in the stretch, but again left his feet at the last sixteenth, and the black horse won by a length and a half, eased just at the win. There was never more than a length of daylight between them, except at the finish of the first heat; the black horse was never headed, although Gentry was on even terms when he broke in the stretch in the first Four other events were decided. The first, a Four other events were decided. The first, a $500 consolation for unplaced starters in the Horse Review stake for two-year-olds, trotted Tuesday, was won easily by the Direct filly Miss Beatrice in 2:34½, 2:33½, Baby C second, Athway third. The Novelty trot went to Porter, whom Starr laid up in the first heat and then cut loose. La Gratitude gave him a hard tussle for the second heat, but was unsteady in the last, which he won easily. Packet trotted a good race for a lame horse. Lutell, who won the first heat, fell on the lower turn in the secthe first heat, fell on the lower turn in the second, in company with Baroness and Marguarite, both being declared distanced.

In the clipper stakes Pearl C simply paced h field off their legs. Valleau fought her in the first heat, but she shook him off and won so easily that it was evident that she could have beaten the mare's pacing record, 2:07. had it been necessary, while she stepped to the half in 1:03\% in the second, which completely choked her pursuers. Valleau's separate time in the first heat was 2:08%.

The great four-year-old Pat L simply out-classed his aged field in the 2:11 class. He cut his mark a full second in the first heat and could have beaten 2:10. Bouncer and Bertie R had a hot fight for the place, Andrews' mare getting it by a strong finish in the last heat. The will be hard to beat in two weeks. The summary:

FIVE SHEFFIELD FAVORITES

There was joy among the talent at Sheffield yesterday for the favorites won the first five races, and on four of them there was a fair price. The weather was warm, the track fast races, and on four of them there was a fine price. The weather was warm, the track fast and the attendance up to the average. With the exception of the last race when Caufield came to the rescue of the bookmakers, there were no very close finishes, but the racing was enjoyable. In the first event at six furlongs Uncas, the favorite, had it all his own way, leading almost from start to finish, and winning easily from Terragnes was second into Terra Archer. Terragnes was stretch where she gave it up. stretch where she gave it up.

The bookmakers laid a liberal price against Zamar II in the 2-year-old race. It was little more than a gallop for him, and he won easily, Woodland Belle beating Yours Truly handily for the place. White Frost would have been closer up if Marie C had not bumped into her in the stretch. Hicks fell off The Galley Slave. In the mile race for three-year-olds Frank Jaubert made the running to the stretch, then the favorite, Serena, took the lead. She seemed to be winning easily, but Fred K challenged to be winning easily, but Fred K challenged her at the eighth pole and Dorsey had to ride to win by a length.

to win by a length.

Simmons had no difficulty in winning the seven furlongs, The Kitten making all the running and finishing a good second. Ida Pickwick had very little speed.

Miss Young was an odds on favorite for the owners' handicap, and she won easily with old Glenoid second, and Gomor, who got off last in a poor start, third.

Revenue and Roy Lochiel were most fancied in the last race. Roy Lochiel made the running

What is known as the "refined talent" got a ouple of facers which "hurt" at Sheffleld Satwhat is known as the "refined talent" got a couple of facers which "hurt" at Sheffleld Saturday over Assignee's defeat by Lollie Eastin, and My Luck's downfall. Its pain was national. It suffered again last Tuesday when Redskin beat Assignee. Wherever a player of probity lurked he doubly played Assignee—a scamp, but as fast as lightning. A few local players got even money and 6 to 5 in order against Assignee. The prevailing and foreign odds were 4 to 5 and lower. The chance takers—seventy per cent of modern bookmakers are such—and all the pool rooms won heavily over Assignee's two defeats. The pool rooms of these days of ours cannot "round" or "play prices," as the other wing of the bookmaking fraternity—it's less than thirty per cent—do. The natural room game—with the "shade" of odds sent them—is to take the money and profit by the player's errors—many. Assignee in Saturday's race was cut off on the turn, got off badly, wasn't ridden too well, and turn, got off badly. wasn't ridden too well, and all that. Yet he should have won. He was beaten by an inch or two—but beaten. Tuesday he was not outlucked but outrun. The Indiana judges are keen of eye and make no mistakes. The trouble was that during the Saturday contention, after Assignee had got to his horses he was bumped and sulked. That's his angle

Tom Gallagher, the billiard player, was a rac ing reporter of depth and observation in his day He and his made a trip to Indiana both days to increase what they had about the Assignee rac They came away with less than they had. was philosophical after the turmoil. He was philosophical after the turnion. He has been "bumped" many a time and oft. The reflections that come to one during the soreness from "bumps"—creates your philosopher. Tom grew reminiscent as he tells of what might have en, but wasn't—financially. "Assignee sulks,' said,. "It's an old trick of his. When I was working in the East two years ago"—Tom was a reporter and doing the Metropolitan turf for me. I was then sporting editor of the Tribune. 'Billie Lakeland said to me one morning," con "Billie Lakeland said to me one morning," continued Gallagher, "The public think Domino is the fastest horse in training. That thief"—and he pointed to Assignee, who was coming back from a bit of exercise he didn't relish; 'is faster than Domino—if he'll run true." Lakeland and the Keenes discarded Assignee because he wasn't true. Truth is class, and class is trying, honesty, regularity and ability to do great things in a pingle. It holds good with men as with horses. a pinch. It holds good with men as with horses. There's sympathy in the connection of the twain. In this mood Byron McClelland sold, at a cheap In this mood byron McClehand sold, at a cheap figure, W. B. and Evanatus. He couldn't rely on them, and they got his jockeys into disrepute. Both amassed sense with age. but both have "fits" still and are in the "bad horse" class.

There is local talk about Muskalonge having won the Milwaukee Derby and judicial error in the award to Prince Lief. Rot! There isn't a more healthy eye than that of Col. Simmons' extant. I've seen him in action some 200 days. There is no more methodical or more correct. The turf's worst enemies are the turf's verbose followers. They talk with their bets, sing to the followers. They talk with their bets, sing to the tune of gain and cry to the pean of loss Of course it's natural. Humanity is not widely wise, and that part of it which turns to racing is not wiser than the mob. Interest rules all our affairs and warps all our corners. Yet, without the betting incentive—far above the generally accepted term of gambling—there wouldn't be much of a turf here or elsewhere. Properly followed, the speculation side of the turf is most entrancing and more intelligent, Study and observation are the keys to success. Holders of such keys often catch the slap-dash bookmaker out of line. This is most often the bookmaker out of line. This is most often the case with its periodical prices. The keenness of a local ring is soon "tabbed" and followed.

There was a case in point last Saturday. George Rose, a real good colt—though his defeat There was a case in point last Saturday. George Rose, a real good colt—though his defeat of Suisun doesn't go on the tab—was sold at Cincinnati and moved to St. Louis by that good judge Jim Murphy. He was in a soft spot yet 3 to 1 was laid against him with a mere exmaiden, Dr. Walmsly, a sharp favorite. Of course George Rose won. The carelessness that offered such a price against the George Kinney colt was not sufficiently punished. He is, by the way, the second George Rose. One, named after the courtly bookmaker, is four years old, a winner and a Californian, in Doggie Smith's Oakland Stable. He's by Three Cheers—Charity. The two-year-old that furnishes the moral for this tale about "form" and the laziness of observation about it, is well named on the old fashioned combination sire-dam plan. He is by George Kinney—Hindoo Rose, and under the laws of registration should be known to the turf as George Rose II.

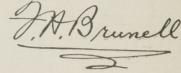

Figaro forsooth! The horse of a fight which Barrick lost and mourned into the courts—of the land and the turf—hasn't been himself since he was cut down last fall. When he is himself Figaro's in the shifty class. He's a 1:40 miler and can sprint a bit, though a distance is his game. His 2:01 for 1 3-16 miles at St. Louis June 12 last divided the 1895 honors of the route with Patrician. Figaro's race, too, was on a track no faster than Brooklyn, where Patrician—both were four years old—equalled his time. Figaro carried 114 pounds and Patrician 107 pounds. If one is busy and sadly needs a bet one can place one in town. The men who serve one, laid 100 straight and 20 for place against Figaro Saturday. He won. So did a neophyte who saw the long odds, bet $5 each way on Veterinary Rowell's Fonso horse and won $600. When Figaro's win was announced there was a scene and only the interference of alcohol and ice water pre-vented medical partnership in the profits.

Byron McClelland is accounted a lucky turfman. His luck seems to be the luck of the fellow who studies his business, buys well, sells better, retains the best and parts with what seems the best but isn't. McClelland has sold some good horses. Halma was one. He got his price again. To me it seems as if his modern mistake in a sales way was about Buck Massie. The colt deceived him. He sold him to John Rodegap for $1.600. John sold him to John Rodegap for $1.600. John sold him to Jim Murphy for $5,000 and thought it a good bargain. Rodegap told me at St. Louis last fall that he had cut the worth of the colt in half because the Chicago tracks were closed. But he still thought Buck Massie only a good selling plater. Murphy, without turf training, but ling plater. Murphy, without turf training, but a keen and intelligent man, has proven the colt to be of the first class. What a lot of good horses Murphy has bought at a reasonable figure! Buck Massie is one, Souffle another and George Rose still another.

There's Magnet! He's in the great horse niche, according to popular fancy. The colt's fast-The turf books abound with his speed bits. He's consistent, too, in a fair sort of way. But a champion! Bosh! Galen Brown, for Burns & Waterhouse, the Californian turf firm, wanted Magnet at $10,000. Dan Honig refused the price. He has a sentimental notion toward the Belmont pred colt. Then too he likes that how of hisbred colt. Then, too, he likes that boy of his—who's bad to-day and good to-morrow—Garner. The kid loves Magnet and goes to tears when a price on the colt is talked of. To my notion Galen Brown is a keen judge of a horse. He has a good one in his stable—Libertine. He can beat Magnet at any angle of the turf. Libertine's Magnet at any angle of the turf. Libertine's less than great at that. But not much less. Then, too, he's not "understood"—as the boy denominated the carbolic acid bottle just before he'd partaken and died. F. H. Hickok. the present Hickok Stable, paid $5,000 for Magnet on the home ground — Blemton. He's Belmont bred, Dan Honig got him for a little more than half that price. He got a bargain. But at the same time he got less than a great horse. If Magnet is kept busy early in the race horse. If Magnet is kept busy early in the race and given a tussle late, he is one of your "pass it up" kind. His 1896 racing is much better though than that of last year. The improvethough than that of last year. The improvement probably comes through the keen training hand of Honig.
